Big brands on their way in town centre revamp

Starbucks and Peacocks set to open up in 'major boost' for the area's economy

By Sam Meadows
sam.meadows@hertsessexnews.co.uk

STARBUCKS and a host of other shops and cafes are being welcomed back to Harlow.

Addington Capital has unveiled the new-look Marks & Spencer unit in the town's Harvey Centre, which is set to open before Christmas.

Along with American coffee chain Starbucks, clothes retailer Peacocks will be returning to Harlow, while local businesses Papa's Cafe and Gym's Kitchen will be given the chance to grow in new premises.

Redevelopment

The redevelopment will also incorporate a 30,000 square foot gym.

Alex Wagstaff, partner and head of retail at Addington Capital, said: "This has been a major refurbishment – taking a prominent town centre building that was totally dated and unfit for purpose to create modern space attractive to tenants."

And the move has been described as a "major boost" to the town's economy by Councillor Tony Durcan, who is responsible for regeneration in the town.

A Cineworld cinema will also be opening at the Harvey Centre before Christmas as part of the area's rejuvenation.

FUTURE VISION: A CGI model of the redevelopment of the former Marks & Spencer unit at the Harvey Centre in Harlow. It has been welcomed by Councillor Terry Durcan Ollie's ballet school audition was en pointe!

POISED: Ollie Grant

TALENTED 13-year-old Ollie Grant has joined a leading London ballet school after a successful audition.

The teenager will receive expert training in classical ballet every weekend on the Prep Boys Associate course at the Central School of Ballet in London.

His success is being celebrated by his Old Harlow school Ballet First, where Ollie will continue to practise during the week.

Theresa Crumb, principal of the St John's Walk group, said: "Obviously I'm thrilled, but it's a testament to the training they receive at Ballet First.

"It shows that if students work hard they will optimise their chances."

Ollie has been training for three-and-a-half years, and his teacher said getting a place at the capital school was a huge achievement.

Theresa, who has been with the school for 17 years, continued: "There is a certain amount of stigma for a boy to do ballet still, but it is not what it used to be.

"We do see more boys now coming into ballet."

Consultant fees queried by MP

Politician calls for inquiry after CQC finding

By Sam Meadows
sam.meadows@hertsessexnews.co.uk

CONCERNS have been raised over money spent on management consultancies by regional NHS trusts in the wake of Princess Alexandra Hospital being placed in special measures.

Robert Halfon, the MP for Harlow, pointed to £1.6million paid to two companies by "regional NHS bodies".

Last week the hospital, on Hamstel Road, Harlow, was rated "inadequate" by the Care Quality Commission (CQC).

And Mr Halfon called for an inquiry into how much money has been spent on consultants and why.

"I have real concerns about the money spent by regional NHS bodies on consultancy," he said.

"Many hundreds of thousands have been spent on management consultants, with £1million going to PwC and over £600,000 to Boston Consulting Group alone.

"I am not clear why this much money needs to be spent when the work could have been achieved by NHS officials and by speaking to the hardworking doctors and nurses in our hospitals who best understand the problems they are facing and what their patients need.

"We need an urgent inquiry into how much money has been spent on these management consultancies and why."

Mr Halfon also pointed the finger at NHS England for failing to provide adequate support to the hospital.

He said: "I am also not happy with the support the independent health body, NHS England, has offered to Princess Alexandra Hospital.

"Not only did they fine Harlow Hospital £1.8million earlier this year while it was already struggling, but not one senior NHS England official has visited Harlow Hospital since the arrival of their current chief executive over two years ago."

Bosses

Hospital bosses insisted the site remains safe, despite the CQC's conclusion, pointing out that serious incidents have halved in a year.

A spokeswoman said: "Some patients, in particular some of our frail elderly patients who require complex care, are at risk of spending more than four hours in the emergency department.

"This is not acceptable to us or our patients. One reason is that the hospital is almost always working at full capacity, which means that the ability to transfer patients who require an in-patient stay can be delayed.

"We have one of the lowest bed to ED attendance ratios in England – in short our hospital is too small for the demands placed upon it ."

A detailed action plan will be produced by bosses to help address the issues raised.

A spokesman for NHS Improvement said: "We have just placed the trust in special measures and dramatically increased the amount of support it gets in order to bring about rapid and sustained improvement.

"Patients rightly expect high-quality services, and we will work closely with the trust to make sure that urgent improvements are made."

A spokesman from NHS England said: "We will continue to work with NHS Improvement and the local health system to support Princess Alexandra Hospital NHS Trust to make the necessary improvements to its services."

■ Last week, the Star reported the Care Quality Commission (CQC) had found Phil Morley, the chief executive of the Princess Alexandra Hospital NHS Trust, responsible for its failings. In fact, while the report raised concerns about leadership at the hospital, Mr Morley was not named as responsible for the trust's "inadequate" rating. We are happy to set the record straight

Sharp rise in serious calls made to helpline

THE NSPCC Helpline has reported a sharp rise in calls in the county serious enough to be referred to external agencies.

Over the past year in Essex, there has been 916 cases passed on to authorities such as the police – a 39 per cent increase on 2012/13.

Concerns raised by those who have contacted the helpline range from cases of sexual abuse to child behaviour and child slavery.

The majority of referrals in Essex have been related to child negligence, with cases in this category up by 51 per cent.

Physical abuse of a child has also risen by 21 per cent in the county.

New figures from the helpline reveal that 33,333 calls have been referred over the past year across the country, totalling almost 100 every day.

CEO Peter Wanless said: "These figures reveal a nation that is more alive to the issues of child-abuse following recent high-profile scandals and the ongoing investigation into non-recent child-abuse.

"They have become increasingly concerned and aware of the tell-tale signs of abuse and neglect in children and our helpline is an invaluable service for people worried about the safety of a young person.

"But when people are worried, and feel they need to speak to someone, they can be reassured they will be listened to and taken seriously."

Man knifed in buttock by robbers

A MAN was stabbed in the buttock after two men wearing Halloween masks demanded his phone.

The victim, in his 20s, was walking along the cycle path between Kingsland and Third Avenue, Harlow, with his girlfriend at around 4.30pm on Wednesday, October 19.

Two masked men, armed with a knife, approached them and demanded the victim hand over his phone, but he refused and was stabbed in the buttock.

He was taken to hospital for treatment for a minor injury.

Essex Police is appealing for witnesses after the attempted robbery.

The first suspect is described as white, 6ft tall, of slim build and wearing a zombie Halloween mask, a grey and blue Adidas hoody and dark jeans.

The second suspect is described as mixed race, of slim build, 6ft tall, and wearing a Frankenstein Halloween mask, a black Nike jacket and black Nike jogging bottoms.

They were seen running off towards Third Avenue. Anyone with any information is asked to call Detective Constable James Smith at Harlow Police Station on 101. Crimestoppers can also be contacted anonymously on 0800 555111.

Charitable trust needs £20k to ensure it can stay at premises

Foodbank launches fundraising appeal

By William Mata
william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

AS WELL as vital food donations, Harlow Foodbank needs financial support to continue operating in its Matching Tye warehouse.

The service, which is operated locally by Michael Roberts Charitable Trust (MRCT), provides meals to residents who may otherwise go hungry.

After a 2.5 per cent increase in referrals from this time last year, Harlow Foodbank now provides for an average of 226 people a month thanks to residents donating long-life products at drop-off points.

But Gary Knott, director of community services at MRCT, said £20,000 is needed to ensure the foodbank can continue operating in its perfectly suited Harlow home.

"We are asking the community to get behind us. They are wonderful with food donations, but people don't always appreciate it costs us money to operate," he said.

Adapted

"We have been in the Matching Tye warehouse since February. It has been excellent, the volunteers have adapted to it very well. We have two floors and 5,000 square foot of space.

"Before we were in Lok'nStore and other venues, and we had to keep moving it round, but now it is all there for us to use."

Since opening in 2009, Harlow Foodbank has fed 18,716 people with emergency food and has formed links with schools to offer breakfast clubs.

There is no deadline for the £20,000 to be raised, but Mr Knott is hoping to have the funds by the end of the year. It will pay for rent, utility costs and business rates.

HELP NEEDED: Harlow Foodbank manager David Evans with Edna Stevens, chairman of Harlow Council

MRCT, based in Wych Elm, Harlow, also controls Harlow Bounty Club, which delivers fresh food that would have otherwise gone to waste.

Mr Knott continued: "We are used to working really hard to raising funds in different ways. We are looking for sponsorship from companies, too.

"We are seeing a steady increase of referrals. From what we can see, it looks like we are going to see a slight increase in 2016 from last year, but it is so unpredictable.

"Please help us by donating and sharing this request with friends, family and work colleagues on social media."

■ Donations can be made online by visiting www.mrct.org.uk and following the JustGiving link and subsequent instructions at the bottom of the page. Cheques and cash can be sent to Gary Knott, MRCT, The Rainbow Centre, 2 Wych Elm, Harlow, CM20 1QP

Fewer people are claiming Jobseeker's Allowance

THE number of job-seekers has fallen as shops begin their Christmas recruitment drives.

Department for Work and Pensions data shows the number of people claiming Jobseeker's Allowance (JSA) has dropped to 940 in Harlow and 935 in Epping Forest.

This is 20 fewer people in both areas than the previous month.

Dave Cope, Essex operations manager for the government department, said: "It is a pretty healthy drop.

"We are happy with the decrease. It might be down to Christmas temporary jobs.

"We have found the decrease in the number of people claiming has slowed down, and that is almost inevitable."

Eight shops to open in town

Redevelopment to open by Christmas

By Sam Meadows
sam.meadows@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A MULTI-MILLION pound development has been completed, with shops set to open before Christmas.

The redevelopment of the former Marks & Spencer unit at Harvey Shopping Centre in Harlow was taken on by opportunity fund Addington Capital.

Shops set to move into the retail space, branded The Terrace, include Starbucks, Holland & Barrett and Peacocks.

There will also be a 30,000 sq ft gym run by Exercise 4 Less. The full slate of businesses is completed by Nationwide, Papa's Cafe, F Hinds and Gym's Kitchens.

Major

Alex Wagstaff, partner and head of retail at Addington Capital, said: "This has been a major refurbishment – taking a prominent town centre building that was totally dated and unfit for purpose to create modern space attractive to tenants.

"The take up of the units show there is great demand for retail space within the town centre, provided we meet the modern space requirements of today's national retailers.

BOOST: Councillor Tony Durcan

"We are delighted with the success of the project and look forward to the new units opening in line with the new Cineworld cinema, which is also due to in December.

"With all the new arrivals, we are expecting a very busy Christmas at the Harvey Shopping centre."

The company acquired the three-storey building from M&S in August last year and has extensively redeveloped it.

All the new tenants will be open for Christmas 2016 with the exception of Nationwide, which will open in the New Year.

Councillor Tony Durcan, Harlow Council's Cabinet member for enterprise, said the move was a "welcome boost" to the town centre.

He welcomed Peacocks and Starbucks back to Harlow and lauded the opportunity the development provided to local businesses Papa's Cafe and Gym's Kitchen.

He added: "I know shoppers want to see a wide variety of choice and more big name shops.

"However, the town centre is changing and we are seeing a shift in it being more than just a shopping centre but also a place for leisure, for eating and for socialising.

"This redevelopment shows that private building owners are investing in the town centre to attract and keep businesses here and to support smaller local businesses to flourish."

This is the latest development at the Harvey Centre, Harlow, which Addington acquired in a joint venture in March 2011 as part of the Sapphire Shopping Centre Retail portfolio.

Joint letting agents on the shopping centre, owned by EPISO, are Anthony Appleby at Brasier Freeth and Harry Wildsmith & Chris Hovington at GCW.

PROUD AS PUNCH: Michael King collects his award at Harlow Town Railway Station

Great service wins man award

A RAILWAY station employee has been awarded for "excellent customer service".

Michael King, an area relief clerk at Harlow Town station, scored top marks in a mystery-shopping survey, and was praised for being friendly, helpful and professional when providing help and information to passengers.

In recognition of his achievement, rail operator Greater Anglia awarded him a certificate.

He becomes the 250th employee on Greater Anglia's West route to receive the top score.

The company's area customer service manager, Kevin Walton, said: "I would like to congratulate Michael on his perfect score and thank him for his efforts.

"I am delighted that we have now seen 250 employees on our route independently recognised for their dedication in delivering excellent customer service and would like to congratulate them all on doing their best for customers every day."

Still seeking answers, four years on from tragic blaze

A fresh appeal for information about fire which claimed six lives

By William Mata
william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A FATHER is still waiting for answers about a fire that killed his wife and their five children four years ago.

Abdul Shakoor was the only survivor of a blaze in Barn Mead, Harlow, and Essex Police has appealed again for help with one of its most difficult and challenging investigations.

Detective Superintendent Rob Vinson, of Kent and Essex Serious Crime Directorate, said: "Four years have passed and we are still desperate to find answers for Dr Shakoor.

"He lost his wife and five children in this tragedy. We are determined to do everything we can to bring the person or persons responsible for this to justice.

Community

"I still firmly believe the answer to this case lies within the community of Harlow, and I would urge anybody who knows anything to come forward."

A fire swept through the ground floor of the family's terraced home in the early hours of October 15, 2012, which experts said reached temperatures of 800C and sent thick smoke through the property.

Dr Shakoor leapt from an upstairs window and suffered severe smoke inhalation, but he was unable to save his family.

SURVIVED: Dr Abdul Shakoor at a press conference

His wife, Dr Sabah Usmani, and their children, Hira, 12, Sohaib, 11, Muneeb, nine, Rayyan, six, and three-year-old Maheen Shakoor died the same day.

VICTIMS: Sabah Usmani and her five children, who all died in the fire

The family came to the UK from Pakistan in 2009 and moved to their Harlow home in 2011. At an inquest in 2014, Essex coroner Caroline Beasley-Murphy recorded an open verdict.

Chelmsford Coroners' Court heard all evidence that suggested it was a murder, but firefighters could not rule out an accidental cause.

A car was found burnt out a few yards from the house, which could have been a linked incident, while one line of inquiry is that the fire started during a burglary.

Anybody with any information is asked to contact the Serious Crime Directorate at Brentwood on Essex Police 101.

People can also contact independent charity Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555111.

Dispute leads to a walkout

Post Office is 'at crisis point', says union

By William Mata
william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

POST Office staff will again walk out in a dispute over jobs, pensions and closures, with further strikes on the cards.

Harlow Post Office in Stone Cross is threatened under plans to amalgamate services in WH Smith, in Broad Walk, Harlow, and employees will take action on Monday.

Communication Workers Union is calling on its members in Crown post offices nationwide. These larger high street units are standalone post offices threatened with closure.

LAST POST: Harlow Post Office could move services to WH Smith

Stakes

Dave Ward, CWU general secretary, said: "The stakes have never been higher for the future of the Post Office, its workers and the communities they serve.

"The Post Office is at crisis point and the management and Government need to listen to the workforce.

"Staff and the public are seeing little more than a glorified closure programme from the Post Office, and it cannot survive by simply cutting costs.

"We are calling for the Government as the owner of the Post Office to step in, halt the cuts and work with us to develop a proper strategy that will secure the future of the service."

The dispute affects 3,500 staff across the country and follows a walkout on September 15, which was also supported by trade union Unite.

Mr Ward added that Post Office chiefs are unwilling to move on any key issues, and CWU is not ruling out further action in the busy Christmas period.

A consultation into the Harlow branch ends on Wednesday, and the proposed move is in February next year.

A move to WH Smith would results in longer opening hours and the possibility of Sunday trading.

This would not affect smaller or local post office branches.

Roger Gale, the general manager of the Post Office Crown Network, said: "We are committed to keeping our services on the high street, which we know is hugely important to people. This proposal means we can continue to do that into the future.

Services

"Customers will be offered the same range of services, with the exception of the digital application service for the Home Office, and Sunday opening."

He added: "We have to adapt so that we can maintain our presence on high streets and in the heart of communities, which we are determined to do."

To take part in the consultation, call 03457 223344 or email comments@postoffice.co.uk

FEELING BLUE: A League Of Their Own panellist Andrew 'Freddie' Flintoff

Show puts football club on the map

CELEBRITIES put Harlow on prime-time television with big names enjoying an all-star kickabout.

James Corden, Jack Whitehall, Andrew "Freddie" Flintoff and Jamie Redknapp, hosts of A League of Their Own, brought the Sky 1 show to Harlow Arena, home of Harlow Town Football Club, in June.

Free entry was offered for fans to watch the filming as Corden and Whitehall managed five-a-side teams containing former Premier League pros Dion Dublin, Neil Ruddock and David Seaman.

Former England cricketer Flintoff also played alongside Lee Bowyer, Paul Dickov, Dean Windass and Jamie Redknapp, whose father, Harry Redknapp, handed out trophies.

After a four-month wait, fans enjoyed watching the episode earlier this month.

Double baby surprise for mum who opted for IVF

23-year-old told she couldn't have children naturally gets a shock

By Charlotte Page

A WOMAN from Harlow successfully conceived her first child through IVF after being diagnosed with Polycystic Ovary Syndrome.

At age 23, Kelly Groves and her husband, Richard, decided to seek medical advice after trying for a baby for seven years.

Mr and Mrs Groves visited the Bourn Hall Clinic in Colchester where she was diagnosed as having PCOS, one of the most common conditions affecting infertility.

Following her appointment, Mrs Groves, now 30, was advised to lose weight to increase her chances of pregnancy through IVF.

"My diet and lifestyle had to change dramatically to get pregnant," she said.

"I was very lazy with no exercise at all but had to change all that because I wanted a baby.

"Healthy eating and exercise helped me to lose about two stone, which then helped with my IVF being successful."

With only one of Mrs Groves' eggs fertilising successfully, she was convinced that the treatment would fail.

"They tell you to wait two weeks before taking a pregnancy test but I didn't, I took one after about seven days and it was negative. I convinced myself it wasn't going to work.

"Thankfully I was wrong. I took another test about four days later and this time it was positive! I cried my eyes out. Scott, my husband, was ecstatic and he cried with me.

"I then rushed out and bought about another ten tests."

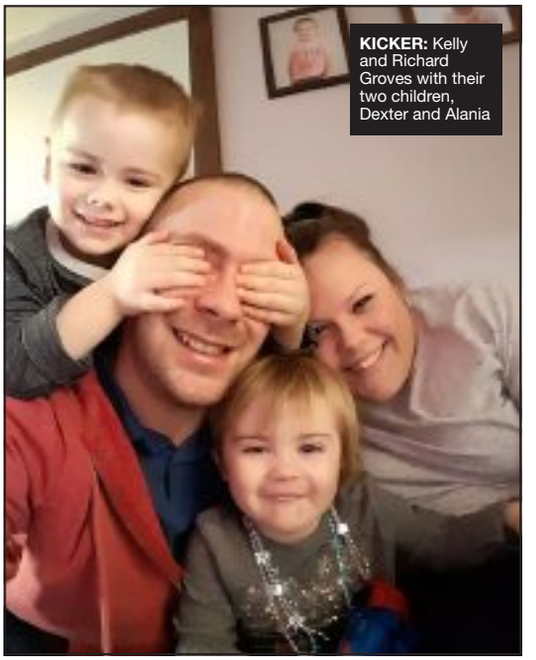

Following the birth of their son Dexter in 2012, Mrs Groves began to feel unwell three months later. I'd only had about one week of sickness when I was pregnant with Dexter, but the feeling was very similar.

"I bought a pregnancy test, but I didn't really think I could be pregnant. After all, I'd been told I couldn't have children naturally."

Mrs Groves then found out that she was pregnant with her second child, Alania Groves, who was conceived naturally and born three days before Dexter's first birthday.

MANY HAVE DIFFICULTIES

- One in seven couples may experience difficulty conceiving
- Usually 84 per cent of couples will conceive naturally within one year
- The chances of conceiving rises to 92 per cent within two years and 93 per cent within three years
- For couples who have been unsuccessful conceiving for more than three years, the likelihood of pregnancy in the next year is 25 per cent or less
- There are two types of infertility, primary and secondary infertility
- Primary infertility refers to someone having difficulty who has never conceived a child before whereas secondary infertility refers to someone who has had pregnancies in the past and having difficulty conceiving again
- A couple are only diagnosed as infertile after one year of trying
- For 25 per cent of couples, the reason for infertility is left unexplained

Week aims to highlight issues of fertility

THIS year's National Fertility Week is aiming to highlight the unseen and intimate issues of fertility that couples experience in day-to-day life.

The campaign is set to explore the myths and truths about infertility in our early 20s and 30s, life after IVF and the coming to terms with life without children.

In light of the awareness week, Bourn Hall Clinic in Colchester is hosting a "fertility fair".

Couples who are having difficulty conceiving are invited to meet a team of experts who will be able to offer help and advice.

Fundraising

In the month leading up to National Fertility Awareness Week, people across the county have been invited to hold fundraising events.

From cake sales to sponsored walks and non-uniform days, the campaign strives to raise awareness about fertility especially amongst the younger generation.

National Fertility Awareness Week is from Monday, October 31 through to Sunday, November 6.

Bourn Hall Clinic in Colchester is hosting its event on Saturday, November 5.

ECONOMY

Local economy handicapped

IT IS at this time of year local councils start to construct their budgets for the next financial year. Most councils do this with the intention of promoting the best interests of the local people and their local economy. Clearly there is much that could be done in Harlow in pursuit of these worthy objectives.

To illustrate these remarks, I offer the following observations. Recently, whilst out shopping, my wife and I counted at least 20 empty shops plus various other vacant premises in the town centre. Despite government claims that the national economy has largely recovered from the banking crisis of 2007/8, this is not evident in Harlow. As we are all aware we have recently lost two more major retail outlets from Broadwalk. It would seem that the Harlow economy is subject to additional prevailing strains over and above those that originated from the banking crisis.

For instance, maybe those closed/vacant shops reflect the fact that some £7million has been lost from the local economy since 2012. That is approximately the amount Harlow Welfare Rights & Advice (HWRA) would have gained for Harlow people on low income had Harlow Council not forcibly closed HWRA's Advice Centre premises and cancelled their contract in 2012. This figure includes external investments and deducts money gained since. In addition to this loss, Harlow Council spent well over £600,000 on legal action, business rates and various other predictable costs rather than accept the installment offer made by HWRA to settle monies owed. How was that in the best interests of council taxpayers?

This council-promoted state of affairs has produced the unsatisfactory result that the local economy has been handicapped by the loss of revenue income, as shown above.

Despite the claim that the financial state of the nation is recovering from the banking calamity of 2007/8, a lot of Harlow people are living in an age of council-imposed austerity.

Whilst Harlow Council do not support the HWRA, it is encouraging that the National Lottery fund does by its continued grant aid reported by the Star last week.

For this support, many people in Harlow are heartily thankful.

HATE CRIME

Reprehensible and moronic

ON THE recent death of Arkadiusz Jozwik, known as Arak, I decided to put a photograph of Arak together with a Polish flag, two vases of red and white flowers and a memorial candle in my sitting room window.

I did this as a tribute to Arak to show solidarity with the Polish community in Harlow.

Almost immediately, large bones, dead pigeons, and a dead hamster were thrown into my garden.

I find this attitude in the wake of Arak's untimely death both reprehensible and moronic.

I would like to take this opportunity to send my condolences to the Polish community in Harlow in general and Arak's family in particular.

SYRIA

Does it remind you of anyone?

I AM diametrically opposed to almost everything that Guy Mitchinson espouses in your columns, with his slavish promotion of hardline Thatcherite policies and ideas.

But for the first (and probably the only) time I find myself in complete agreement with his suggestion for a boycott of the 2018 Football World Cup to be held in Russia, as a protest against their murderous conduct in Syria.

The rest of the free world should be making a loud statement against Putin's appalling conduct, and a boycott of this high-profile event would be a perfect opportunity.

However, it would be a mistake to assume that the boycott would have one iota of effect on Putin. His bullying campaign of stealing territory from his weaker neighbours that try to stand up for themselves or increase ties with the West (Georgia, Ukraine), combined with his posturing against the Baltic States, have clear parallels with the conduct of notorious dictatorships in the 1930s. As did those dictators, he keeps himself in power by strict control of the media, combined with only permitting internal opposition as long as it is ineffective.

Any opposition that looks to be becoming a threat to him leads to imprisonment on trumped-up charges, death in mysterious circumstances or "accidents", or those concerned having to flee and live in exile for their own safety. And as we saw with the murder of Alexander Litvinov in London, even that doesn't guarantee safety.

Does this remind readers of anyone from the past?

POLITICS

Dragooned into attending

I EXPECT that Harlow MP Robert Halfon will claim that the jobs and apprenticeships fair held under his auspices at the Harlow Leisurezone on Friday, October 21 has been a success.

Before he pats himself on the back, perhaps he should take into account that the level of attendance was artificially inflated. Many of those turning up will not have done so voluntarily, but will have been ordered to attend by Harlow Job Centre.

People in receipt of Jobseeker's Allowance who fail to attend Mr Halfon's jobs and apprenticeships fair face being "sanctioned" by the Department for Work and Pensions. If they do not turn up, their money could be stopped.

Thanks to the Government of which Mr Halfon is a member, and its Coalition predecessor, there has been a massive increase in the imposition of such draconian sanctions, which has helped fuel the huge increase in the number of people requiring the services of food banks.

Mr Halfon will be hoping that the publicity generated by his jobs and apprenticeships fair will enhance his prospects of re-election. It surely cannot be right that the threat of starvation should be used as a weapon to compel people to attend an event that will promote a representative of a particular political party. It seems to me that Harlow Job Centre is in effect forcing those without jobs to act as propagandists for a Conservative politician.

If we were to hear that unemployed people in a foreign country were conscripted by the state to boost the public profile of a government minister, then we might conclude that that country was not truly free. I'm sure that many local people will be shocked to learn that such a thing has been happening in Harlow for the past few years.

If Mr Halfon's jobs fair was truly as wonderful as he claims it to be, then it would not be dependant upon unemployed people being dragooned into attending.

MENTAL HEALTH

Thank you for a great event

MAY I say thank you to the charity MIND for putting on the free event called Positive Connections at Leisure Zone on Wednesday, October 19.

There were some fantastic and knowledgeable lectures. Some of the lectures were delivered from people who had kindly travelled across the country, to share their experiences with the audience.

It is excellent to see that there are more of these events popping up, to create awareness of mental health .

If more people spoke openly about their personal experiences of mental health, then the stigma would lessen, thus creating a more positive world. Comedian Jake Mills delivered a lecture about how he had suffered and shared the Hub of Hope with us. His mission is to provide a free health service to people suffering from mental health problems, from anxiety to depression and attempted suicide.

The Hub of Hope is where anybody can go to for help. Please find out more and spread awareness by visiting www.chasingthestigma.co.uk

It is people like this, who share their wisdom with altruism and compassion, that make the world a better place.

HEALTH

Hospital's worst week in history

THIS week has been the worst week in the history of our local hospital by being put into special measures by the CQC. Does it deserve it and what is the impact?

The CQC clearly thought care and quality was good, showing we still have wonderful, dedicated staff working to make a difference.

What it also showed is that the leadership, management and strategic overview is significantly lacking.

What it tells us is that senior leadership still haven't been able to resolve and respond to the challenges made by CQC 12 months ago. Whilst it easy to blame the CEO, Phil Morley, we must look at the wider health and social economy and the consequences of cuts and closures in this area.

Is it PAH's fault that people are having to be admitted due to lack of social/community care or that people can't be discharged safely due to lack of local services?

Is it fair that the trust is simply stuck in the middle and just trying to cope?

Harlow isn't unique, but this issue must be addressed. Clearly we need change and that means strong leadership from PAH.

I respect the current leadership team at PAH, but we need to reset the relationship between all partners with a more inclusive agenda.

I have confidence that we have the energy, willpower and determination to make the changes required to protect and provide not only good care, but an effective and responsible managed hospital.

Harlow community will support the hospital as long as we have confidence in those who provide the leadership. Those in leadership have wonderful clinical staff, who together can and should make the difference with our support.

SHOPPING

Please turn the music off!

I, AND a friend, used to meet up in the Harvey Centre for a coffee and a casual chat.

However, that is no longer the case.

The incessant brainwashing of the (repeated on a loop) music and "public information" has changed all that and, for the sake of sanity, we now keep away... much to the dismay of the cafe proprietor, who is losing income.

If the owners of the Harvey Centre insist on playing this harmonic nausea (they should be forced to suffer it as well as everyone else), then turn the volume level down... right down and, preferably, off!

We aren't deaf and we didn't come to the Harvey Centre to be forced to listen to this garbage. If I hear Tom Jones singing Delilah one more time, I'll go crazy!

ON THE MOVE: One of the pandas that has been released into the wild Yange Yong/Cardiff University/PA

Giant pandas off to have a wild time after release

AFTER three years in captivity, two giant pandas have been released back into the wild.
The pair were born in the Panda Protection and Research Centre in China, where they lived with their mothers and were raised and cared for by keepers.
Before facing the wild, the pandas were given training and taught basic survival skills, including how to hide from predators, how to adapt to tough weather conditions and how to find food.
The pair have been released now because the late autumn and early winter months are the best time for it.
If they had been born in the wild, this is the time that they would leave their mothers.
Giant pandas have recently been declared as no longer endangered, but they are still seen as vulnerable.
This pair will play their part in saving the species.

Ex-student 'inspires' with talk on stammer

PUPILS at a Harlow secondary school have welcomed back a former student, who revealed how he overcame a serious speech impediment.

Thomas Battelly, who left the Stewards Academy in 2006, visited his former school on Parnall Road to give an honest talk on his journey to conquer his stammer.

Thomas attended specialist appointments for many years when he was younger, and used to fear speaking.

Two years ago, however, he found out about the McGuire Programme, set up to help people overcome their stutter.

Strategies

He had to completely relearn the alphabet and learn several strategies and techniques to manage his stammer.

Speaking to more than 200 people in the assembly, Thomas told students: "Fight the fear or the fear will fight you."

Throughout the talk, he never showed a sign of his stammer.

Deputy head teacher Marie Erwood said: "I was very moved as I listened to Tom speak, and I feel immensely proud of the inspirational young man standing tall before me.

"I hope that every Year 7 pupil will see him as a role model of resilience."

SPEAKER: Thomas Battelly at Stewards Academy

'Burnt Mill got me to Harvard'

Ex-pupil's dream opportunity in USA

By Kelly Clark
star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A FORMER Harlow student is inspiring youngsters to follow their dreams as she prepares to work with the world's top medical professionals.

Maddie Leadon left Burnt Mill Academy, in First Avenue, in 2010 with 12 A* GCSEs and went on to Corpus Christi College, in Cambridge, to study medicine.

The 22-year-old is now five years into her six-year course and is preparing to take a giant leap into her chosen profession.

As part of her course, she has been invited by Harvard Medical School, in America, to spend time in surgery and complete clinical research into vascular malfunctions in the brain.

She will also work directly with Canada's chief medical examiner Michael Pollanen, shadowing his autopsy and crime scene work and attending the world forensic science conference.

Maddie, the first person in her family to go to Oxbridge or study medicine, is keen for others from her home town to see no matter where you start in life, you can reach the heights she has.

Encourage

She said: "My various teachers at Burnt Mill helped me to achieve my grades. They helped me along the way, they knew my ambitions and were keen to encourage me to work to achieve my goal of studying medicine.

"I remember always being embarrassed to say they were my dreams as I knew it was such a hard thing to achieve and had a stereotypical view in my head that only grammar school students would get in. But Burnt Mill never held me back, they always said to go for it.

"Never listen to anyone who says you can't make it. It can be difficult sometimes, but as long as you put in the hard work and you really want to achieve, you absolutely can do it. Don't let anyone tell you otherwise.

"I have often been asked what school I have come from, but I am proud of my background."

Maddie's trip abroad next summer will help her to decide what area of medicine to go into when her studies finish.

She said: "I am so excited for both trips. They will be completely different to each other and are both once-in-a-lifetime opportunities.

"It is going to be absolutely brilliant; not just for my future, but as an experience.

"I am hoping the trip will help me to decide what path to take next. I like the idea of becoming a neuro surgeon, but if I really love the forensic medicine I may go down that route."

'Essex needs 55 new schools by 2020'

MORE than 600 extra classrooms will be needed in Essex by 2020 due to the growing population.

Scape Group, a public sector environment specialist, has said 613 classrooms or 55 new schools will need to be built in the county in the next four years.

By 2020, it is expected there will be 89,000 extra school pupils in the East of England.

Mark Robinson, chief executive of Scape Group, said: "We're already seeing unprecedented pressure on school places. A radical new wave of school-building must be a top priority for government."

Residents targeted by fraudsters

FRAUDSTERS pretending to be from the Nigerian Embassy are targeting residents in an inheritance scam.

Officers are investigating a report that a Harlow resident had fallen victim to the scheme, and Essex Police has released a warning.

Detective Constable Leo Fordham, of Harlow Police Station, said: "These criminals are very convincing and prey on their victims' trust.

"I would like to speak to anyone who has been contacted in a similar way and has transferred money or met people claiming to be involved in the process for releasing the alleged inheritance."

Scammers claim a relative has died abroad and has left a vast sum of money in their will. Victims will then be contacted by people claiming to be bank or government representatives.

They say this process will take several years and ask for payments to bypass administrative and tax costs. Criminals then take the money and can target several people at once.

DC Fordham added: "Governments and large companies do not transfer money through individual accounts.

"If you receive any correspondence or phone calls, do not respond to them and do not send them any money.

"Never arrange a meeting in response to one of these frauds, as you will not recover your money and you could put yourself in physical danger."

Puppies make their TV debut on This Morning

RSPCA volunteer is among those who took pooch along to studio

A PUPPY from Harlow has made his TV debut after appearing on ITV's This Morning.

The daytime television programme invited puppies from various animal homes and charities to appear in a segment in preparation for the first episode of ITV's new series, Puppy Secrets: The First Six Months.

Among those invited was Wendy Catton, 30, a volunteer at the RSCPA Stort Valley in Harlow.

"It was very hectic, there were lots of puppies," she said.

"There was havoc in the green room."

Miss Catton appeared on the show with a ten-week old American bulldog, who goes by the name of "Puppy Five" until his new owner names him.

She continued: "He found it a little bit daunting but he made friends with This Morning's resident guide dog, Luna.

Eat

"We did have an incident of him trying to eat Christine Bleakley's shoe."

The ITV series is set to document the early stages of a puppy's life and highlight the training of dogs.

"At such a young age, the training, if we're lucky, involves teaching the puppy how to sit and come to us if they are called," said Miss Catton.

"But mainly it's about the socialising and teaching them not to be scared of strangers."

Since featuring on This Morning, Puppy Five has now been reserved by a man from Chingford and is looking forward to starting his life in his new home.

PROUD TO HAVE SERVED: Outgoing Labour MEP Richard Howitt

Town's EU politician leaves position

POLITICIAN Richard Howitt stood down as an MEP with a speech in Harlow.

The former Harlow Council leader addressed the town's Labour Party, while leaving the role in Brussels he has held since 1994.

He will become the chief executive of the International Integrated Reporting Council, an organisation that links companies with society.

As MEP for Essex South and then East of England from 1999, the 55-year-old has held position of rapporteur on corporate responsibility for four terms.

He said: "I am proud to have promoted jobs and business in Harlow. I will always remember some fantastic EU projects.

"There has been some difficult moments, including the firebombing of the Harlow Islamic Centre and the suspected murder of a Polish citizen.

"But the way schools are working to tackle racism and the brilliant leadership in our faith communities shows the best in Harlow community will always come out on top."

Man accused of taking lewd upskirt photos

The suspect claims 'mistaken identity'

By Court Reporter
star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A MAN accused of prowling railway stations to take secret "upskirt" photos of women allegedly went on to sexually attack one of his victims as she walked home.

Marvin Mckenzie, 29, is alleged to have taken pictures of four other women, one a teenager in school uniform, at Stratford underground station in London.

The Harlow woman, now 39, was walking from the town's train station on the footpath between Fifth Avenue and Newstead Way in Harlow at 11.35pm on Thursday, March 17, when she was allegedly attacked by McKenzie.

McKenzie denies one count of sexual assault and five of outraging public decency by pointing, or attempting to point, a camera beneath a woman's skirt.

The first alleged photo and assault involved one woman.

The other later offences allegedly took place on April 13, within a 25-minute period at Stratford. The identity of three are unknown but the alleged incidents were caught on CCTV.

The Harlow mother, who for legal reasons cannot be identified, told Chelmsford Crown Court she was returning home unusually late from a works function in London.

She continued: "All of a sudden there was just somebody on top of me, pushing me down and then his hand was immediately up my skirt and moving around.

"I didn't hear him or anything. I started screaming and shouting 'f off' and going a bit crazy.

"I was kicking out at him and sure I made contact. As I managed to turn round he ran off. I just saw the back of him.

"He was extremely well aimed and not clumsy so he must have been very close to me.

"I was on the floor and at the same time his hand was just underneath my skirt and grabbing at me."

Police drove her around the area to see if they could find the assailant without success.

But Prosecutor Karl Volz told the jury of seven women and five men that CCTV footage revealed that McKenzie showed an "undue interest" in the woman.

Mr Voltz continued: "He appears to hold his phone quite low and do something with it."

He said that the footage showed McKenzie "milling about, almost like he was prowling and looking for women to abuse and photo in this way".

One of the women turned round and challenged him.

Station staff checked CCTV and pointed a suspect out to British Transport Police.

When an officer spoke to McKenzie two days later he ran off. Investigators traced his movements and identity through his Oyster travel card and bank card he used to top up payments.

A white Samsung mobile seen on CCTV was not found when he was arrested in May.

McKenzie, a dad-of-two, told the jury he had not seen anyone else on his walk home in Harlow and it was a case of mistaken identity.

He claimed he had twice slipped over while waiting at Stratford station and had his phone in his hand as he was expecting a call from friends.

The trial continues.

Don your hat and take part in fun run to raise much-needed funds for hospice

You could aid families to enjoy big day

By Emily Cooper
star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

SANTAS and elves will be getting festive as they take on a 5km fun run.

The annual Santa Dash in support of St Clare Hospice will take place on Sunday, December 4, at The Water Gardens in Harlow.

The 5km route is suitable for all abilities and this year, there will also be a mini-mile for young families.

The hospice is hoping to raise £10,000 to help provide essential care services and help create memories for families on Christmas Day.

Denise Green's 20-year-old daughter, Charlotte, was cared for by St Clare Hospice and they both spent Christmas Day there in 2013. Ms Green said: "We were at St Clare on Christmas Day itself, and when we woke up we both had a stocking.

"It was such a sweet touch and I'll never forget the look on Charlotte's face. All the family came and we had a mass present-opening session in her room, with all the paper stuffed in bin bags just like at home.

"The kind nurses had arranged for us all to have Christmas lunch in the sanctuary and Charlotte sat eating her turkey with the rest of us.

"Later, we played games and ate turkey sandwiches and watched telly – just like we would at home. They made it as much like home as they could."

Challenging

She added: "Considering it was a challenging time for us all, it was a lovely Christmas Day. This year we'll be at home, but Charlotte won't be there.

"Although she improved enough to come home for a few months, with the support of St Clare's Hospice at Home team, the cancer got worse.

"Charlotte died at St Clare Hospice on June 25, 2014. She was only 20 years old.

"Christmas won't be the same without Charlotte, but we'll never forget that last Christmas at St Clare and how special it was for our family.

"We'll always have those memories and I'll treasure them forever. We were so lucky to have been looked after by St Clare Hospice and I want everyone who needs their help to receive it."

A Christmas Day meal for a family at St Clare Hospice costs £42 and the charity is encouraging all participants to raise this amount as they take part.

Each adult gets a free Santa suit and each child gets an elf hat. Registration is at 9.30am and sets off at 11am.

Fred and Ginger need a home

THIS is Fred, who came in with his sister, Ginger. They are ten-year-old siblings who have been together their whole lives.

They came into our care when their owners' circumstances changed and they were no longer able to look after them.

They are a beautiful pair and we would love them to stay together. They are a little bewildered at the moment having gone through the trauma of losing their home.

But rest assured they are both very friendly and love attention. Fred likes to snooze, whereas Ginger is a little more inquisitive, both love their chins being tickled!

They will make a wonderful addition to any household. Please see our website for more information, www.rspcastortvalley.org.uk

We have had a very busy few weeks at our clinic not only with lots of animals coming to see the vet, but lots of foster animals finding their new homes.

All five of our American bulldog puppies have now gone to their new owners including Puppy Five, who made his TV debut on This Morning.

We now have a veterinary clinic four mornings a week, check the website for the times.

We will see people who are on benefits and could not afford a private vet, but please make sure you register and book an appointment as we are unable to see walk-ins.

We offer consultations, microchipping and vaccinations, as well as basic blood tests.

We are currently in need of volunteers and are looking for anyone who could give anything from a couple hours once a month to helping in our centre weekly.

We are also looking for a vet assistant to help our vet during busy clinic days.

If you feel you may be up for the challenge please send your contact details to volunteerrspca@gmail.com and we will be in touch as soon as possible.

IN BRIEF

Quiz night will support charity

A QUIZ night will raise money for a charity that supports people with progressive supranuclear palsy.

Jade Beament, 24, of Potter Street, Harlow, lost her father to the condition, which is similar to Parkinson's disease and leads to loss of nerve cells in the brain.

This in turn causes loss of balance and difficulties with speech.

She will hold the quiz at Passmores Academy, Tracyes Road, Harlow, on Saturday from 7pm.

It costs £5 per person, with a maximum of eight in a team.

All proceeds go to Progressive Supranuclear Palsy Association. To sign up, visit www.michael.beament.much loved.com

Time to benefit

CHARITIES will stand to benefit from a campaign by Essex Freemasons to raise £5million in five years.

Festival 2022, launched last week by provincial grand master Rodney Bass, challenges members to secure sponsorship for taking part in any activity from a walk to a skydive.

Mr Bass said: "We believe Freemasonry should be fun, and if you can raise money for charity at the same time, that is an incredible bonus."

The Masonic Charitable Foundation gives thousands of grants countywide to various organisations.

£800k savings

ESSEX County Council could save £800,000 by scrapping nine members of its senior management team.

Proposed streamlining could be the start of a wider reconstruction as County Hall seeks to make savings to become more efficient.

David Finch, council leader, said: "The new structure will see more emphasis put on to those commercial elements of the council, which we will be reliant on over the coming years, and also digital, which we know we need to embed more into our work."

Passenger complaints to company one of highest

Rail operator has received 49.4 grievances per 100,000 passengers

By Sam Meadows
sam.meadows@hertsessexnews.co.uk

RAIL operator Greater Anglia is near the top of the pile for passenger complaints, according to the latest figures.

The statistics, released last week by the Office of Rail and Road, revealed the company received 49.4 complaints per 100,000 passengers in one year.

Users on social media often bemoan the frequency of delays on the company's lines from London to locations including Cheshunt, Hertford East, Harlow and Bishop's Stortford.

Greater Anglia also received a low praise rate – only 1.7 per 100,000 customers – with the top company, Virgin Trains East Coast, receiving more than 30.

A spokesman for the company said the transferring of some of the franchise's best-performing services to Transport for London had an effect.

He added: "Comparing the current franchise area on a like-for-like basis, year on year, we saw a slight increase in complaints which reflected a slight increase in service disruption over the period covered.

"A number of our colleagues regularly achieve 100 per cent in mystery shop surveys and we frequently receive praise via social media.

"We also undertake a number of customer service initiatives which are popular with our customers, such as giving out cupcakes, ice creams and drinks at stations."

He also said the company was making it easier for customers to claim compensation for delays and would invest £1.5billion on upgrades in the next decade.

Under-fire company Govia Thameslink, which runs Great Northern services going through Hertford North, Hitchin and Letchworth GC, only received 21.7 complaints per 100,000 passengers.

But the franchise only received 0.2 comments of praise per 100,000 passengers. The statistics relate to the company's entire network, not just services in Hertfordshire.

Examples

A spokesman said: "The 20,000 examples of praise GTR receives each year, which is the same as Transport for London, is testimony to the great work so many of our individual staff put in to deliver good customer service.

"The number of complaints made is the seventh lowest of 21 operators and 13 times fewer than the highest. But we know we need to improve our service and we are working hard with Network Rail to do just that."

Nationally, the company that received the highest number of complaints – 164.7 per 100,000 – was Virgin Trains East Coast, although the company runs long-distance services.

MAKING VIEWS KNOWN: Greater Anglia received 49.4 complaints per 100,000 passengers

Responding to the figures, Lianna Etkind from Campaign for Better Transport said: "It's not surprising that passenger complaints are at record levels.

"People are rightly angry that they are paying some of the highest rail fares in Europe for trains which are often delayed, unreliable or cancelled."

She added: "The Government needs to commit to a fares freeze and automatic compensation for everything that Southern passengers have endured.

"It can't be right that under present arrangements, the onus is on the passenger to fill out delay repay forms, and that no compensation is available for delays of under 30 minutes – even if delays have doubled passengers' journey time.

"We've heard promise after promise from the Government about compensation for delays of more than 15 minutes, but they have still not set a date for introducing this."

Roadworks are pushed back

ROADWORKS set to bring Edinburgh Way to a standstill have been pushed back into the New Year.

The improvement works along the Harlow A414, where temporary traffic signals, speed limits and directions will be installed, were set to begin this month.

But Essex County Council has postponed the works until January.

A spokesman said: "The delay comes after additional requirements were highlighted. We are currently retendering for the preliminary works to include these requirements.

"The start of the works will now be in the New Year so that there is no disruption to traffic movements during the busy Christmas period.

"This change will not impact on the main work schedule due to commence next summer."

Initial works will focus on utility diversions in the footway and verges on the northern side of Edinburgh Way, before more extensive work begins to create a dual carriageway.

The A414 between Cambridge Road, River Way and Station Approach will be affected.

Potter fans will be in for a big treat

A SHOPPING mall will be given a Hogwarts-style makeover for a Harry Potter-themed day of activities.

The Harvey Centre's School of Witchcraft and Wizardry will be opened on the ground floor and feature lookalikes from JK Rowling's book and film series.

Children can also enjoy potions and broomstick training classes, while a magical sweet shop will offer youngsters a pre-Halloween sugar rush.

All activities will be held from 11am to 4pm on Saturday at The Harvey Centre in Harlow.

Young dancers shine at gala

THE Harlow Ballet Association is set to present one of their biggest autumn galas.

Taking place in the new Studio Theatre at Harlow Playhouse, this year's performance will feature a variety of choreography.

The show will feature brand new dances from the likes of Claire Hickles, Alexandria Jenkins and also include an opening of the second act of Giselle.

The programme will thank the Jack Petchey Foundation for the grant they gave to the association as well as giving the ballet school the chance to showcase their expansion of contemporary ballet classes.

Artistic Director Michael Branwell, said: "This year's gala will be magical. The contrast between some of the more modern style choreography on show and the pure romantic classicism of Giselle will show the versatility of our young dancers.

"The totally renovated Studio Theatre will provide a perfect venue for the Gala."

"This is a show for everyone interested in dance – don't miss it!" he said.

Harlow Ballet Association's Autumn Gala will take place on October 28 at 8pm and October 29 at 4pm.

Fox and Betjeman come together in Sandwiches

JOHN Betjeman will be remembered on stage but not in an adaption of one of his poems. Sand in the Sandwiches travels though his London childhood, his Oxford University education and into his life as Britain's Poet Laureate.

For one night only the biographical drama will be performed at Harlow Playhouse on Tuesday, November 1.

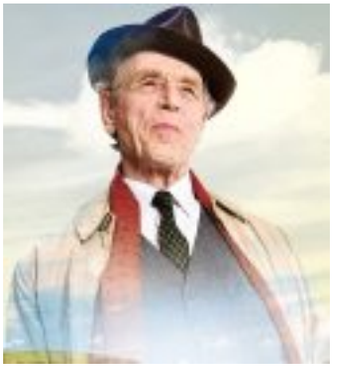

Edward Fox is Betjeman in the play written by Hugh Whitemore. Sand is a labour of love for both men in remembering the poet but Edward said the pair had different ideas at the beginning.

"It was an idea of Hugh Whitemore's and we first began talking about it four years ago," he said.

"Hugh suggested I play Betjeman but I wasn't convinced. I pointed out that I neither looked like Betjeman nor sounded like Betjeman. Hugh disagreed with me.

"He argued that it's who he was that is important and which has to be conveyed. We worked on it for a bit and then we did a reading for Betjeman's daughter, Candida, and I think that we all felt that it had reached a certain stage of being good. All the people that I met who had known Betjeman said much the same thing."

The play opens with a reading of A Subaltern's Love Song, one of Betjeman's best known works which blends his charm and nostalgia for a Victorian way of life.

Edward said: "He is both a young man's poet and an old man's poet and his work is completely accessible. He has the human touch. He is so perceptive about life.

"He sees the truth in something and in a single line he can make it completely comprehensible. His insights can make an audience sense that they are connecting with a feeling that might have long lain dormant somewhere in their subconscious.

"He was a great satirist, conjuring up the kind of people we've all met in just a couple of lines."

Edward does not have a favourite Betjeman poem but has a fondness for Slough, an extract of which was memorably read by David Brent in The Office.

He added: "He wanted to be a poet from a very early age and Betjeman regarded the writing of poetry as a duty and as a service.

"He was popular with the public but not with the world of academe who were rather snobbish about him and he had enormous periods of depression when he doubted the worth of his poetry.

"He saw himself as a sieve, sorting out words and ideas so that people could understand. He was quick-minded, witty and very human and he generally wrote about the more positive aspects of life.

"Working on this play, I've been both stimulated and invigorated by the man and I hope that audiences will feel the same."

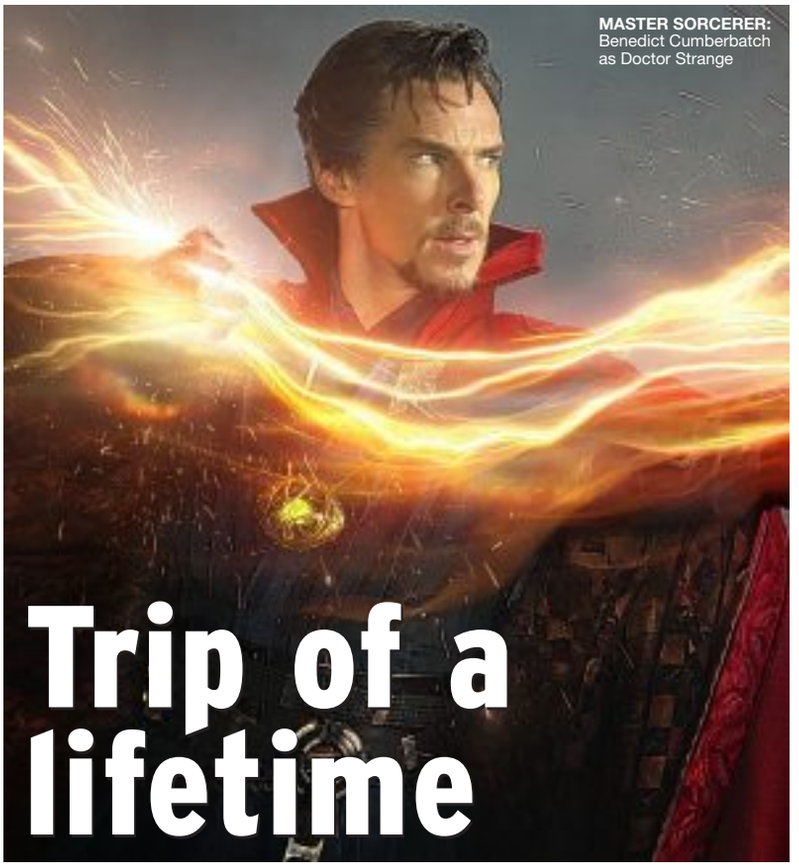

The performance begins at 7.30pm and tickets cost between £13.50 and £16.50. For bookings and more details visit www.playhouseharlow.com or call (01279) 431945.

MASTER SORCERER: Benedict Cumberbatch as Doctor Strange

Trip of a lifetime

Doctor Strange

FANTASY ACTION: (12A)
115 minutes
Director: Scott Derrickson
Starring: Benedict Cumberbatch, Rachel McAdams, Tilda Swinton, Chiwetel Ejiofor, Benedict Wong, Mads Mikkelsen

Doctor Strange, the latest tumble down the rabbit hole of the Marvel Comics universe, is a trip – a hallucinogenic, kaleidoscopic trip of mind-bending special effects that left me with a pounding headache.

City streets and landmarks fold in on themselves, rotate and collapse on multiple axes, rather like Christopher Nolan's Inception or one of MC Escher's disorienting illustrations, only with eye-popping fury in 3D and IMAX 3D.

As a masterclass in dizzying digital wizardry, director Scott Derrickson's film delivers all of the spectacle we have come to expect from a big-budget blockbuster infused with the creative DNA of the Avengers, Captain America and Guardians Of The Galaxy.

The snarkiness and self-deprecation that distinguished those pictures is in evidence in Derrickson's fleet-footed script, co-written by C Robert Cargill, including one scene where the titular medic meets a po-faced librarian called Wong and quips, "Just Wong? Like... Adele?" to uncomfortable silence.

Doctor Strange might be able to train his mind to override the rigid laws of physics, but no amount of study can refine or polish his blunt force humour.

Stephen Strange (Benedict Cumberbatch) is a brilliant and arrogant neurosurgeon, with a minimalist Manhattan apartment and an off-limits romance with fellow medic, Christine Palmer (Rachel McAdams).

Years of meticulous study are jeopardised when Strange foolishly takes a telephone call in his speeding silver Lamborghini.

ENLIGHTENMENT

Medical colleagues save his life, but not his career, surgically refashioning his trembling hands with 11 metal pins.

Cast adrift from the world of science, Strange heads to Kathmandu in search of spiritual enlightenment in the company of an enigmatic Celtic shaman called The Ancient One (Tilda Swinton), who harnesses energy to shape reality.

Two of her Masters, Karl Mordo (Chiwetel Ejiofor) and Wong (Benedict Wong), take Strange under their wing and spearhead his training so he can travel long distances with a swish of his hand.

"Forget everything you think you know," Mordo counsels Strange.

As his confidence grows, Strange learns about a former Master, Kaecilius (Mads Mikkelsen), who strayed from the path of righteousness and uses his powers for evil.

When Kaecilius threatens Strange's old life, including the beautiful Christine, the medic puts his training into practice to save everything he holds dear.

Aside from the trippy effects, which left me wishing I could turn back time like the title character and pre-medicate, Doctor Strange is a satisfying opening salvo.

Cumberbatch digs deep beneath the bruised skin of his character's overinflated ego, verbalising the inner turmoil of a self-anointed god, who learns that he is flawed and not entirely the master of his own destiny.

McAdams is squandered in an undernourished role as the token love interest, but Swinton imposes herself on scenes so there is at least one strong female presence to undercut the raging testosterone.

Two additional vignettes, woven into the end credits, hint at future plot strands and tease one Marvel Comics spin-off in the pipeline.

"Doctor Strange will return" promises a final caption – a repeat prescription to raise the spirits.

Don't waste your pumpkins

Everyone set to carve their Jack-O'-lanterns this Halloween? It's always a messy business and such a shame to bin all that lovely scooped out pumpkin flesh - we've got some scrummy ideas to put it to good use...

Pumpkin risotto

SERVES FOUR
Ingredients
25g of butter
1 tablespoon of olive oil
150g pumpkin or butternut squash
Approximately ½ litre stock (chicken or vegetable)
1 tablespoon of olive oil
1 onion, finely chopped
2 cloves of garlic, finely chopped
A few sprigs of thyme
200g risotto rice
125ml of dry white wine
40g butter
60g freshly grated Parmesan cheese

Method
Dice your pumpkin into 1cm squares. Keep all the trimmings. Roast the squares with butter and olive oil in a hot oven, 220C, until they start to colour.
Simmer your trimmings in the stock until they fall apart, it gives a nice colour to your risotto.
Sauté onions, garlic and thyme in olive oil until onions are clear.
Add rice and stir until rice turn translucent. Don't worry if the rice turns slightly brown in places.
Add wine and stir until absorbed.
Now add a ladle of hot stock and stir until absorbed. Carry on this way until all the stock is absorbed or the rice has a very slight crunch to it.
Season and stir in the last butter, parmesan and pumpkin cubes.
Serve and enjoy.

Halloween pumpkin cupcakes

SERVES 12
Prep time: 15 minutes
Cooking time: 25 minutes

Ingredients
175g (6 oz) Stork tub
175g (6 oz) golden caster sugar
300g (11 oz) self-raising flour, sieved
3 medium eggs
5 tablespoons milk
½ teaspoon baking powder
100g cooked pumpkin or butternut squash, mashed 50g chocolate and hazelnut spread
Zest of 1 orange

Topping
115g icing sugar
A little orange juice
55g (2 oz) plain chocolate, melted or use chocolate and hazelnut spread
Liquorice sweets and laces to decorate

Method
Place 12 muffin cases into a muffin tray.
Place the first six ingredients into a bowl, and beat with a wooden spoon until the mixture is smooth.
Stir in pumpkin mash and orange zest and divide half the mixture evenly between the paper cases, add a half teaspoon chocolate spread and then top with remaining mix.
Bake in a pre-heated oven for 20-25 minutes oven 200C, 180C (fan assisted), Gas mark 6 for 20-25 minutes.
Add a little orange juice to the icing sugar until thick and spread over the muffins. Pipe the melted chocolate in four circles over the top and then drag a skewer through to give the cobweb effect. Place the sweets and laces on top to look like a spider

Lemony pork meatballs, Tenderstem and roast pumpkin

SERVES 4
Prep time: 15 minutes
Cooking time: 40 minutes to bake

Ingredients
750g pork mince
100g fresh breadcrumbs
1 small onion, finely chopped
2 cloves garlic, crushed
Zest of 1 large lemon (reserve juice for squeezing over at the end of cooking)
A pinch of dried thyme
A pinch of dried oregano
1 large egg
Salt and freshly ground black pepper
800g of pumpkin
1 bulb garlic, broken into cloves but left unpeeled
4 tbsp olive oil
500g cherry tomatoes
400g (or 2 packs) Tenderstem, each stem cut into 2
To serve:
Juice of 1 lemon, a small bunch of flatleaf parsley, chopped
warm ciabatta bread and grated parmesan cheese (optional)

Method
For the meatballs, mix the pork with the breadcrumbs, onion, garlic, lemon zest, herbs and egg.

NO WASTE: Pumpkin risotto

Reserve the lemon juice for squeezing over once cooking has finished. Season with salt and pepper. Roll the mixture into walnut-sized balls, setting aside on a large plate as you go.
Preheat the oven to 220C / 200C fan/gas 6.
Cut the pumpkin up into 3-4cm chunks – leaving the skin on for easier preparation and a great chewy texture – and spread it out into a large roasting tray. Tuck in the cloves of garlic and drizzle over most of the oil, and season with a little salt and pepper.
Roast in the hot oven for 15 minutes.

Remove the pan from the oven, add the tomatoes and give them a good mix with the pumpkin, then spread out the meatballs over the top. Return to the oven for 15 minutes.

Blanch the Tenderstem in boiling water for two minutes before draining well. Add to the roasting pan, stirring to mix and return to the oven for ten minutes.
Squeeze over the lemon juice and scatter with the parsley and parmesan (if using) before taking to the table in the tray. Serve with plenty of crusty ciabatta to mop up the juices.

Mirror Books
A true story of one woman's remarkable journey
Doreen answered a knock on her door, and her life changed forever...
When her happy homelife began to unravel, Doreen had to act fast to save her family from financial ruin and rescue her marriage. Leaving her children and housewife role at the door each day, she entered a world of political scandals, glamorous movie stars and cultural icons. She may not have set out to be a trailblazer, but that's exactly what Doreen Spooner became. The life story of Fleet Street's first female photographer is an uplifting and touching tale and a hugely enjoyable portrait of postwar Britain.

Depp ditches his colourful LA property

HOT GOSSIP

ALL eyes are on Johnny Depp at the moment as the next installment of Pirates Of The Caribbean, due to be released in May next year, gets ready to sail.

But the 53-year-old actor has had a starring role of a different kind recently during his acrimonious split with Amber Heard.

During their 15-month marriage, details of their stormy relationship leaked out to the media, including, most famously, a video shot by Heard at their Los Angeles apartment.

The apartment where the fracas took place in is one of five properties Depp owns within the 13-storey Eastern Columbia Building, one of the city's most beautiful Art Deco edifices designed by Claud Beelman.

Depp and Heard had been using the apartments – which compromise four two-bedroom units plus a one-bedder – as a single home.

She recently concluded a $7million separation from Depp and, following this, he moved out of the apartments and put the whole property on the market for $12.78million.

The property is available to buy as one 11,500 sq ft home or as separate apartments. But either way the next owner will get to enjoy Depp's quirky, colourful and distinct interior design style. The apartments include several large murals by Brazilian artists Os Gemeos, for example.

INTERIORS >with LESLEY TAYLOR

Go big with plenty of cushions or blankets. This selection is available at the Taylors ETC showroom, www.taylorsetc.co.uk

In the mood for hygge

IF YOU'VE picked up an interiors magazine over the last month or two you will have probably come across the Danish term hygge. In fact, such is the popularity of hygge I think it may replace Lego as Denmark's favourite export this Christmas.

And I can see why.

Hygge, or 'hue-gah' as its pronounced, has no direct English translation but roughly speaking it means cosiness and contentment.

And while contentment cannot be achieved by interior design alone, it can go a long way.

So grab a coffee and a warm cinnamon bun (both are big faves in Denmark) and let's talk all things hygge.

Come together

Hygge can be interpreted in many different ways but at its heart it's all about bringing people together. And bringing people together usually involves food.

The Danish are renowned for enjoying sumptuous meals with family and friends, with most families in Denmark sharing an evening meal together every day. So a dining table is an absolute must.

Scandinavians love nature and their homes are often filled with products inspired by the great outdoors, so if you're looking to invest in a new dining table choose a rustic looking piece with a solid wooden top.

Burn baby burn

Creating a warm, inviting atmosphere in which to enjoy good times with friends is central to this Danish way of life.

Nothing, quite literally, is as warming as an open flame so candles are a must. Switch off main overhead lights and enjoy a candlelit dinner (on your new dining table) with beautiful candelabras setting the scene.

And what could be more relaxing than a soak in the tub with just candles illuminating the bathroom?

The great thing about candles is they are very readily available. What's more, they come in all shapes, sizes, colours and scents to suit everyone's tastes and decors. And while it may be more hygge to opt for a plain white candle, you have to make the trend work for your home so if you want to burn a red candle, burn a red candle.

Wrap it up

Throws and blankets are a no brainer when it comes to embracing the hygge lifestyle, and the chunkier the better.

And when you're not sat under them, snuggling with your loved ones while sipping coffee (apparently the Danish drink more coffee per head than any other nation), they make a great addition to the furniture. Fold in a neat stack and stow in the corner of her room in a beautiful wicker basket or simply throw it across the back of your couch for some added texture.

No showboating

The hygge movement is very tactile with living spaces just for that – living. There is nothing hygge about buying furnishings just for show.

Every piece has a function, whether it's a cushion for comfort, a pouf for additional seating when unexpected guests pour through the door or a fruit bowl for simply storing fruit.

And it's all about making it work for you and your family; after all, if you want to be truly content in your home you have to be happy with it and how it works for you.

Create a beautiful glow with candles of all shapes and sizes; all from the Taylors ETC showroom, www.taylorsetc.co.uk

Embrace family, friends and good food – just make sure you have a table large enough for everyone

HOW TO COSY UP

Lesley's top tips for achieving hygge:

- Embrace the dark evenings and use it as an excuse to draw the curtains, relax and unwind.
- Candlelight is key but be wary of where you place them. Candles and curtains are not a good combination.
- Invest in the biggest table your dining room will allow – food and socialising go hand in hand with hygge.
- You can never have enough chunky throws and blankets.
- There are no right or wrongs; it's all about personal taste.

IN THE RED

AT A GLANCE

- 0-62mph: 9.0 seconds

TESTED Ford Fiesta Zetec S Red

By Mike Torpey

WHICHEVER way you look at it, red and black make for a sexy combination. Take a set of 17-inch, eight-spoke gloss finish Panther Black wheels and attach them to a shiny Race Red bodyshell with pitch black painted roof.

In the case of a pair of special editions from Ford – the Fiesta Red and Fiesta Black – the two colours work a treat.

But it's not just about the visuals because these two Zetec S versions of Britain's favourite supermini also deliver a hefty punch.

In fact they boast more wallop per litre than a Bugatti Veyron as they are powered by a 140ps version of Ford's multi award-winning EcoBoost petrol engine.

This unit actually has more than twice the power on a litre-for-litre basis than its predecessor – the 1.6-litre 100ps engine that powered the Fiesta S a dozen years ago.

Acceleration from 0-62mph is nine seconds, top speed is 125mph and there's the potential to return a combined fuel figure of 62.8mpg and CO2 emissions of 104g/km.

Impressive stuff for a car that has among the best dynamics in the business and the common sense design and simple driveability that has consolidated its place on top of the UK sales charts.

And that driving experience is enhanced thanks to revised gear ratios for the five-speed manual transmission and a sports suspension set-up.

The result is a car that's a pleasure to drive – and also be seen in.

The tested Zetec S Red model may not look quite so provocative as its Black stablemate but for me it has much greater allure.

Its stand-out touches are everywhere, from the grille surrounds, bumper aerofoil and mirror caps in contrasting colours, to the sports bumpers, side skirts and rear roof spoiler.

You also get a black leather sports steering wheel and gear lever gaiter with red stitching, black floor mats with red stitching and charcoal black sport seats, also with the contrast stitching.

The list of standard kit on the Fiesta Red – including sports pedals, LED daytime running lights and of course those gloss black wheels – is comprehensive.

Worth special mention though are technologies like the Ford SYNC voice-activated connectivity set-up and MyKey, which enables parents to place certain restrictions on young drivers to promote safer driving.

Stopper Norris inspires Harlow to narrow victory

A SECOND half penalty flick from Joe Symonds helped Harlow Hockey Club's men's first team move up to second in the East Men's League Division Five South East table.

Craig Cholerton also netted in the tight 2-1 victory over Witham, with keeper Richard Norris producing some impressive and key saves.

The opener came within the first 30 seconds, Cholerton flew down the left wing and slotted home to give Harlow the lead.

Witham equalised before the break, a ball through the defence found an unmarked player who finished past Norris and into the goal.

Halfway through the second half, Harlow were awarded a penalty flick due to a body obstruction on the goal line and Joe Symonds stepped up to deftly put the ball into the back of the net.

Harlow broke down each attack as the opposition piled forward and keeper Norris was able to thwart Witham with a neat one-on-one save.

They held on for a well-earned three points, moving up to second in the table and face Old Southendian's third team away this weekend.

The ladies' first team smashed second placed Basildon 8-1, as they remained fourth in Essex Women's Hockey League Division One.

Liz Green netted seven goals in the rout, with Charlotte Byers also getting on the scoresheet.

Nina Johnson-Marshall was named player of the match in the ladies' best performance of the season so far, they travel to East London on Saturday.

NOW A HAWK: Khale Da Costa (right, seen here playing for Ware) has impressed in his first two games for Harlow Town

NEW signing Khale Da Costa netted his first goal for the club as Harlow Town picked up their third win in their last four games against Harrow Borough on Tuesday night.

Da Costa made his debut on Saturday as the Hawks won on the road for the first time in the league this season, beating Kingstonian 1-0.

Manager Danny Chapman was full of praise for the winger, who signed from Hendon last week.

"He scored a very good goal last night [Tuesday] and we've been really pleased with him," explained the boss.

"It's always challenging for a new player to come in and fit in and adapt to the different styles of play and how you do things.

"On Saturday he started the move that led to the goal and worked hard, then Tuesday night they were two great team goals.

"Khale deserved his goal because one thing he has done is come in and worked really hard, his work rate is fantastic.

"We're pleased with what he's come in and offered us so far."

Tuesday night was Harlow's third clean sheet in four games, after a run that saw them concede 18 goals in just six games.

The victory propelled them up to seventh in the Ryman Premier table and leaves them just one point outside the play-off places.

The boss admitted he was pleased the team had turned their form around, adding: "When you consider the amount of goals we were conceding, 18 in six games, that's what is really good.

"The difference is that the individuals have all cut out the mistakes they were making, we've worked really hard in training, the back four and [goalkeeper] David Hughes.

"It was never a case of they're not capable or good enough to get out of it, we knew they could and they seem to have done it.

"Thankfully that's happened now and we can move on and forward from it."

The manager admitted his side were second best in the first half as the visitors enjoyed the majority of possession.

Harrow had numerous efforts off target before Hughes got his fingertips on a low cross as two strikers looked set to tap in.

Players from both sides were involved in a melee before half time when Da Costa and visiting keeper Luke Williams collided, but the officials decided against sending anyone off.

The Hawks improved after the break, Jared Small's shot flew over the bar before Da Costa put the hosts ahead, converting a low cross from Layne Eadie after a quick counter-attack.

Mario Noto had been brought on at the break, allowing Leon Antoine to push further forward and he secured the three points in the 89th minute.

Combined

Noto and Eadie combined nicely down the left to play in Joe Benjamin, who crossed for Antoine to head home the winner.

Chapman was delighted with the link-up play his left side produced after the break.

"We spoke to the lads at half-time about how we needed to approach the second half and the quality was much better.

"Layne Eadie, Mario Noto, Jared Small and Joe Benjamin, when he came on, were fantastic down the left hand side.

"They caused them plenty of trouble and ultimately in the end that's where our two goals came from.

"The boys deserve it because they've worked really, really hard to get out of the rut we've been in."

Harlow travel to Evo-Stik Central side Uxbridge in the FA Trophy first round qualifying on Saturday.

Putt falls just short of podium places

Harlow Athletic Club's (HAC) young endurance squad continued their fine form at the Great South Run in Portsmouth on Saturday.

The race was part of the Great Run Series at and HAC had four athletes competing.

In the U17 men's race, Jamie Putt had a terrific run to come home just outside the podium places in fourth, finishing in a super fast time of 8min 06sec for the 2.5km course.

Lottie Rowedder and Savanna Sirkett produced brilliant performances in the U17 women's race.

Rowedder came fifth over the 2.5km course in a fast time of 8:34, with Sirkett finishing in a well-deserved eighth place in a time of 8:53.

Jamie's younger brother, Sam, finished the men's race in 93rd place, with a time of 10:50.

The team head off to Hylands Park in Chelmsford for the second round of the Essex Cross Country League on October 29, where they will be vying for Essex county selection for the upcoming SEAA InterCounties Cross Country Championships.

She won the gold medal on vault and bronze medals for bars and beam. The 14-year-old qualified for the event after an outstanding performance at the Essex County Levels competition in Colchester.

Top gymnasts from all over Essex were involved and Olivia, a student at Stewards Academy, finished with the overall bronze medal after placing second on vault.

Head girls' coach Gordon Mitchell said: "They have done the club proud. It was a really tough county competition so for Olivia to become regional champion was a tremendous achievement."

Youngsters claim a magnificent seven

EVEN with competitors from all over the world competing, Harlow Judo Club continued their good run of form by picking up seven medals at the Southend International.

More than 900 players from nine different countries and 140 clubs competed in the two day event, providing tough competition.

On the first day, Harlow had two players competing, there was tough international competition but the two players fought well.

Fourteen-year-old Giacomo Misuraca battled hard and was unfortunate not to make it through to a medal position.

He finished a very respectable fifth place, but gained valuable fighting experience.

Next up was Thomas Lambert, and the 15-year-old overcame an Algerian brown belt in the early stages of the competition and was narrowly beaten in the final as he came away with a very creditable silver medal.

Head coach, Mick Ellis was pleased with both players who fought well throughout the day.

The second day involved the younger age groups, and Harlow sent nine players along.

Some of the weight categories were split into two groups and eventually ended with the two groups crossing over for the finals, meaning club players competed against each other for the gold and silver medals.

The squad returned with a superb collection of medals; Charlie Armstrong (nine) and Owen Lambert (11) won gold, Macey Brown (eight), Sam Cobbin-Brown (nine) and Kane Horsley (11) won silvers and a bronze went to George Franks (ten).

Ralfy Webb (nine), Kenzie Deamer (ten) and Seth Horsley (nine) were unplaced.

Ellis said "The standard of competition was very high and for the squad to come away with medals is a great achievement.

"I'm very pleased at how well my Squad and the Club are doing so far."

'I wouldn't want to be anywhere else'

Chapman celebrates 300th game as Hawks boss

By Matt Storey
matt.storey@hertsessexnews.co.uk

DANNY CHAPMAN admitted he had no idea last Saturday's game with Kingstonian was his 300th in charge of Harlow Town, but was full of pride when he found out after the 1-0 win.

The 43-year-old took over the reins from Kevin Warren in 2011 and is now the third longest serving manager in the Hawks' history, behind Ian Wolstenholm with 317 games and Dave Edwards, who oversaw 477.

He's overseen points deductions, play-off heartbreak, FA Cup runs and ultimately play-off joy last season and admitted he'd like another 300 games in charge of the club.

"Why would you want to go anywhere else?" remarked Chapman.

"I've been around the club for a long time, I want what's best for the football club and for the town, it's going from strength to strength all the time.

"I actually wasn't aware until somebody told me after the game, but it's a lovely milestone to get and I'm proud to be here for 300 games, hopefully I can go for another 300."

He spoke of the many memorable moments he's had over the last five years, but a few stuck out more than most.

The play-off final victory over AFC Hornchurch in May, played in front of 1650 people, was unsurprisingly Chapman's high point from his time at the helm.

Highlight

"The highlight has to be the game we got promoted, because that's what we aimed for.

"We were working to get out of the league and when it happened it was a really special day.

"Another big highlight was beating Bath City away in the FA Cup last year, that was a really big night and we were excellent.

"There have been a few good highlights to be fair, but the other one you'd look at it is when we beat relegation a few years ago."

Harlow were deducted ten points after an administrative error during the 2012-13 season, eventually finishing just one place above the relegation zone.

"To be deducted ten points meant it was a really tough year and a tough time for the club as a whole.

"Nobody wants to fight relegation, but with what we had at the club that was a real achievement to stay up."

As well as running the first team, Chapman was appointed director of football in April 2015 and he's seen Harlow's youth academy thrive ever since.

He revealed the club are looking at securing another site to allow it to grow even further.

"The youth academy is also going from strength to strength and we've hit full capacity now," Chapman added.

"We want to grow again and grow further.

"That means we might need another new venue and we need to sit down with the right people and discuss that.

"We want to offer football to kids from Harlow and other towns around the area, but we don't want to just develop them as footballers, we want them to be good human beings as well.

"I've got a waiting list of more than 50 kids who want to join the youth academy and we've got the U21 side now as well.

"The ladies have a first team, a reserve side and an U18 team now which is fantastic, it really is growing and we want to continue that."

Chapman and the club continue to be ambitious, not wanting to settle with what they've got, but he says ensuring the club is sustainable is always the main aim.

"Whatever people might say about us, we're not a club that pays massive money.

"We try to get value for money in everyone we sign.

"We're not happy to just be a Ryman Premier club.

"We want to push on and be successful but that has to be in a sustainable manner for the club."

Harlow hit top thanks to Stalley brace

DIRECTOR of rugby Lee Harron was delighted as his Harlow side beat Basildon 31-12 to pick up their third win in row and put themselves level on points with league leaders Wanstead.

The London and South East Division Three North East top two play each other on Saturday and Harron wants his side to be ready for the match.

He said: "Next week's game against top of the table Wanstead is a massive game – it's really important we have a good week at training and prepare well.

"This was another important win and sets us up really well for next week. The defence in the second half was superb and it was good to see youngsters like Jack Christy and Alfie Clark doing well."

The men in red started strongly, and an early penalty in front of the posts was converted by Danny Smith.

Harlow continued to dominate the next 20 minutes, with the forwards going through the phases and off-loading well.

Tactical

Good tactical kicking from Smith and Ross Stalley kept Basildon pinned back and eventually the pressure told with Christy crashing over the line for his maiden try for the first team.

This was quickly followed up as Stalley beat his man before running the ball in from 25 yards out.

Harlow then suffered a set back when Basildon kicked long and a lucky bounce landed in the hands of the home team's left winger, allowing him to finish underneath the posts to make the score 17-7 at half-time.

The visitors started the second half brilliantly, immediately pushing Basildon back, and good kicking from Charlie Woodington meant Harlow were perfectly placed to capitalise on the home team's mistakes.

Firstly, Stalley found some space to score his second try and then Scott Whitby supported well to finish another good move.

Both tries were converted to give Harlow a 31-7 lead with 25 minutes to go.

The final quarter of the match was dominated by Basildon, who put plenty of pressure on the Harlow defensive line.

Despite the home team spending most of the time in Harlow's 22, strong defence from the visitors meant they were unable to add any more points to their total until the last two minutes, when an unconverted try added some respectability to the score.
